

Guardian Angels

October 2

Who are the Guardian Angels?

The Guardian Angels are heavenly beings believed to be created by God to watch over and protect every living creature on Earth. Many people around the world, from various religious backgrounds, believe in the existence of these kindhearted spirits that provide individuals divine care and guidance in their lives.

Every year on October 2nd is the Feast Day of the Guardian Angels, believers celebrate and honour these celestial protectors. This day holds significance as it is a time to express gratitude and seek blessings from the Guardian Angels. The feast day provides an opportunity for individuals to reflect on the ways in which their Guardian Angels have touched their lives, guiding them through difficult times and illuminating their paths with hope and love.

During the feast day, many people engage in prayers, ceremonies and acts of kindness as a way to acknowledge and thank their Guardian Angels for their unseen yet constant presence. It is a joyous occasion filled with a sense of spiritual connectedness and reassurance, as believers come together to celebrate the compassionate beings that provide support and comfort in times of need. The Feast Day of the Guardian Angels serves as a reminder of the profound belief that each person is never alone and that a celestial companion, their Guardian Angel, is always by their side, offering protection and guidance throughout life's journey. Through this day, we are encouraged to be more aware of the goodness around us and to be kind and caring towards one another, knowing that we are all watched over by our own special angels.
